Description

With up to 10,000 employees, the railway was once the largest employer in the city of Chemnitz. Reason enough to celebrate Labour Day at Schauplatz Eisenbahn. Guests can look forward to a varied programme over three days.

On Friday the engine house is open and draisine rides are possible, weather permitting. The inch-gauge, garden and model railways provide further highlights. For all children there is also the craft station with lots of different railway-themed upcycling activities, where they can get hands-on and create their own railway ideas.

Food and drink are of course provided. An outdoor snack area invites you to linger and offers a selection of food and drinks.

On all days, the Schauplatz-Express provides free transfers on the site between control signal box 3 and the museum platform at the locomotive depot.
